Poetry.

Kitty's Choice.

A wealthy old farmer was Absalom Lee
He had but one daughter, the mischievous Kitty;
So fair, and so good, and so gentle was she,
The lovers came wooing from country and city;
The first and the boldest to ask for her hand
Was a trimly dressed dandy who worshipped her tin;
She replied with a smile he could well understand,
"That she'd marry no ape for the sake of his skin?"

The next was a merchant from business retired,
Rich, grouty and gruff—a presuming old sinner;
Young Kitty's fair form and sweet face he admired,
And thought to himself, "I can easily win her."
So he showed her his palace and made a bluff bow.
And said she might live there; but wickedly then
Kitty told him that she long ago made a rash vow
"Not to marry a bear for the sake of his den!"

A miser came next, he was fearless and bold
In claiming the right to fair Kitty's affection;
He said she'd not want for a home while his gold
Could pay for a cabin to give her protection;
Half vexed at his boldness, but calm in a trice,
She curtsied, and thanked him, and blushingly then.
Demurely repeated her sage aunt's advice.
"Not to marry a hog for the sake of his pen!

The next was a farmer, young, bashful and shy;
He feared the bold wooers who came from the city;
But the flush on his cheek, and the light in his eye,
Soon kindled a flame in the bosom of Kitty,
"My life will be one of hard labor," he said,
"But, darling, come share it with me, if you can;"
"I suppose," she replied, gaily tossing her head,
"I must marry the farm for the sake of the man."

Selected Story.

A Visit With the Doctor

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

How are you to-day, Mrs. Carleton? asked Dr. Farleigh, as he sat down by his patient, who reclined languidly in a large cushioned chair.

"Miserable," was the faint spoken reply. And the word was repeated—"Miserable."

The doctor took one of the lady's small white hands, on which the network of veins, most delicately traced, spread its blue lines everywhere beneath the transparent skin. It was a beautiful hand—a study for the painter of sculptor. It was a soft, flexible, and velvety to the touch as the hand of a baby, for it was as much a stranger to useful work. The doctor laid his finger on the wrist. Under the pressure he felt the pulse beat slow and evenly. He took out his watch and counted the beats—seventy in a minute. There was no fever nor any unusual disturbance of the system. Calmly the heart was doing its appointed work.

"How is your head, Mrs. Carleton?"

The lady moved her head from side to side two or three times.

"Anything out of the way there?"

"My head is well enough, but I feel so miserable—so weak. I haven't the strength of a child. The least exertion exhausts me." And the lady shut her eyes, looking the very picture of feebleness.

"Have you the tonic for which I left a prescription yesterday?"

"Yes; but I'm no stronger."

"How is your appetite?"

"Bad."

"Have you taken the morning walk in the garden that I suggested?"

"O dear no! Walk in the garden? I'm faint by the time I get to the breakfast room! I can't live at this rate, doctor. What am I to do? I'm a burden to myself and every one else."

And Mrs. Carleton really looked distressed.

"You ride out every day?"

"I did until the carriage was broken, and that was nearly a week ago. It has been at the carriage maker's ever since."

"You must have the fresh air, Mrs. Carleton," said the doctor, emphatically. "Fresh air, change of scene, and exercise are indispensible in your case. You will die if you remain shut up after this fashion. Come, take a ride with me."

"Doctor! how absurb!" exclaimed Mrs. Carleton, almost shocked by the suggestion. "Ride with you! What would people think?"

"A fig for peoples thoughts! Get your shawl and bonnet, and take a drive with me. What do you care for meddlesome people's thoughts? Come."

The doctor knew his patient.

"But you are not in earnest, surely?" There was a half-amused twinkle in the lady's eyes.

"Never more in earnest. I'm going to see a patient just out of the city, and the drive will be a charming one. Nothing would please me better than to have your company."

There was a vein of humor and a spirit of "don't care" in Mrs. Carleton, which had once made her independent, and almost hoydenish. But fashionable associations, since her woman life began, had toned her down into exceeding propriety. Fashion and conventionality, however, were losing their influence since enfeebled health kept her feet back from the world's gay places; and the doctor's invitation to ride found her sufficiently disenthralled to see in it a pleasing novelty.

"I've half a mind to go," she said, smiling. She had not smiled before since the doctor came in.

"I'll ring for your maid," and Doctor Farleigh, hand was on the bell-rope before Mrs. Carleton had space to think twice, and edanger a change of thought.

"I'm not sure that I'm strong enough for the effort," said Mrs. Carleton, and she laid her head back upon the cushions in a feeble way.

"Trust me for that," replied the doctor.

The maid came in.

"Bring me a shawl and bonnet Alice? I am going to ride out with the doctor." Very languidly was the sentence spoken.

"I'm afraid, doctor, it will be too much for me. You know how weak I am. The very thought of such an effort exhausts me.

"Not a thought of the effort," replied the doctor. "It isn't that."

"What is it?"

"A thought of appearance—of what people will say."

"Now, doctor, you don't think me so weak in that direction?"

"Just so weak," was the free spoken answer "You fashionable people are all afraid of each other. You haven't a spark of individuality or independence. No, not a spark! You are quite strong enough to ride out in your own elegant carriage—but with the doctor!—O dear, no! If you were certain of not meeting Mrs. McFlimsey, perhaps the experiment might be adventured. But she is always out on fine days."

"Doctor, for shame! How can you say that?"

And a ghost of color crept into the face of Mrs. Carleton, while her eyes grew brighter—almost flashed.

The maid came in with shawl and bonnet. Dr. Farleigh, as we have intimated, understood his patient, and said just two or three words more, in a tone half contemptuous.

"Afraid of Mrs. McFlimsey? Not I; nor of forty Mrs. McFlimseys."

It was not the ghost of color that warmed Mrs. Carleton's face now, but the crimson of quicker heart beats. She actually arose from her chair without reaching for her maid's hands, and stood firmly while the shawl was adjusted and the bonnet strings tied.

"We shall have a charming ride," said the doctor, as he crowded in beside his fashionable lady companion and took the loose reins. He noticed that she sat up erectly, and with scarcely a sign of the languor that but a few minutes ago had so oppressed her.

"Lean back when you see Mrs. McFlimsey's carriage, and draw your veil closely. She will never dream that it is you."

"I'll get angry if you play on that string much longer!" exclaimed Mrs. Carleton, what do I care for Mrs. McFlimsey?"

How charming the tints flushed her sweet eyes, that were leaden a little before.

Away from the noisy streets, out upon the smoothly beaten road, and amid green fields and wood lands, gardens, and flower-decked orchards, the doctor bore his patient, holding her all the while in pleasant talk.

How different this from the listless, companionless drives taken by the lady in her own carriage—a kind of easy vibrating machine, that quickened the sluggish blood no more than a cushioned rocking-chair.

Closely the doctor observed his patient. He saw how erectly she continued to sit; how the color deepened in her face, which actually seemed rounder and fuller; how the sense of enjoyment fairly danced in her eyes.

Returning to the city by a different road, the doctor, after driving through streets entirely unfamiliar to his companion, drew up before a row of mean looking dwellings, and dropped the reins, stepped upon the pavement, at the same time reaching out his hand to Mrs. Carleton. But she drew back, saying.

"What is the meaning of this, doctor?"

"I have a patient here, and I want you to see her,"

"O no; excuse me doctor, I've no taste for such things," answered the lady,

"Come—I can't leave you alone in the carriage. Ned might take a fancy to walk off with you."

Mrs. Carleton glanced at the patient old horse whom the doctor was slandering, with a slightly alarmed manner.

"Don't you think he will stand, doctor?" she asked uneasily.

"He likes to go home, like others of his tribe. Come;" and the doctor held out his hand in a persistent way.

Mrs. Carleton looked at the poor tenements before which the doctor's carriage had stopped with something of disgust and something of apprehension.

"I can never go in there doctor."

"Why not?"

"I might take some disease."

"Never fear. More likely to find a pancea there."

The last sentence was in an undertone.

Mrs. Carleton left the carriage and, crossing the pavement, entered one of the houses, and passed up with the doctor to the second story. To his light tap at a chamber door a woman's voice said:

"Come in."

The door was pushed open and the doctor and Mrs. Carleton went in. The room was small, and furnished in the humblest manner, but the air was pure, and everything looked clean and tidy. In a chair, with a pillow pressed back for a support, sat a pale, emaciated woman, whose large, bright eyes looked up eagerly at so unexpected a visitor as the lady who came in with the doctor. On her lap a baby was sleeping, as sweet and pure and beautiful a baby as ever Mrs. Carleton had looked upon. The first impulse of her true woman's heart, had she yielded to it, would have prompted her to take it in her arms and cover it with kisses.

The woman was too weak to rise from her chair, but she asked Mrs. Carleton to be seated, in a tone of lady-like self-possession that did not escape the visitor's observation.

"How did you pass the night, Mrs. Leslie," asked the doctor.

"About as usual," was answered in a calm, patient way, and she even smiled as she spoke.

"How about the pain through your back and shoulder?"

"It may have been a little easier."

"You slept?"

"Yes, sir."

"What of the night-sweats?"

"I don't think they have diminished any."

The doctor bent his eyes on the floor, and sat in silence for some time.

"I will send you a new medicine" said the doctor, looking up; then speaking to Mrs. Carleton, he added. "Will you sit here until I visit two or three patients in the block?"

"O certainly," and she reached out her arms for the baby, and removed it so gently from its mother's lap that its soft slumber was not broken.

When the doctor returned he noticed there had been tears in Mrs. Carleton's eyes. She was still holding the baby, but now resigned the quiet sleeper to its mother, kissing it as she did so. He saw her look with a tender, meaning interest at the white, patient face of the sick woman, and heard her say, as she spoke a word or two in parting—

"I shall not forget you."

"That's a sad case, doctor," remarked the young lady, as she took her place in the carriage.

"It is; but she is sweet and patient."

"I saw that, and it filled me with surprise. She tells me her husband died a year ago."

"Yes."

"And she has supported herself by shirt-making."

"Yes."

"But she has become too feeble for work, and is dependent on a younger sister, who earns a few dollars weekly at book-folding."

"The simple story I believe said the doctor.

Mrs. Carleton was silent for most of the way home; but thought was busy. She had seen a phase of life that touched her heart.

"You are better for this ride," remarked the doctor, as he handed her from the carriage.

"I think so," replied Mrs. Carleton.

"There has not been so fine a color on your face for months."

They had entered Mrs. Carleton's elegant residence, and were sitting in one of her luxuriant parlors.

"Shall I tell you why?" added the doctor.

Mrs. Carleton bowed.

"You have had some healthy heartbeats."

She did not answer.

"And I pray you, dear madam, let the strokes go on!" continued Dr. Farleigh.

"Let your mind become interested in seme good work, and your hands obey your thoughts, and you will be a healthier woman in body and soul. Your disease madam, is mental inaction."

Mrs. Carleton looked steadily at the doctor.

"You are in earnest," she said in a calm firm way.

"Wholly in earnest, madam. I found you an hour ago in so weak a state that to lift your hand was an exhaustive effort. You are sitting erect now, with every muscle tightly strung. When will your carriage come home?"

He asked the closing question abruptly.

"To-morrow," was replied.

"Then I will not call for you, but—" He hesitated.

"Say on, doctor."

"Will you take my prescription?"

"Yes." There was no hesitation.

"You must give that sick woman a ride into the country. The fresh, pure blossoms-sweet air will do her good, may, indeed, turn the balance of health in her favor. Don't be afraid of Mrs. McFlimsey."

"For shame, doctor! But you are too late in your suggestion. I'm quite ahead of you."

"Ah! in what respect?"

"That drive into the country is already a settled thing. Do you know I am in love with that baby?"

"Othello's occupation's gone, I see!" replied the doctor, rising, but I may visit you occasionally as a friend, I presume, if not as a medical adviser?"

"As my best friend, always," said Mrs. Carleton with feeling. "You have led me out of myself, and showed me the way to health and happiness; and I have settled the question as to my future. It shall not be as the past." And it was not.

Miscellaneous.

The Editor of the Telegram and the Editor of the Sentinel.

The following correspondence explains itself. We know nothing of the relations between Mr. Turner and Mr. Hearne, except what appears in their respective papers. In reproducing the article below, we are not to be understood as adopting its expressions as our own. It is asked for as an act of justice by Mr. Hearne, and we accordingly publish it:

RALEIGH, July 25, 1871

To the Editor of the Carolina Era.

Sir:—the enclosed is the MSS of an article from my pen, which appeared in the Western edition of the Telegram for to day's date.

For reasons of his own, Mr. John Nichols, one of the Publishers of the Telegram, as soon as he saw it, suppressed the article for the morning edition of the paper.

I therefore ask you to give publication to the article, with this note, that neither Mr. Turner nor his friends may complain that I have been guilty of publishing an article relative to himself, and circulating it where neither he nor many of his friends can see it. I ask this as a favor to myself, and an act of simple justice to Mr. Turner.

Very truly.

WM. A. HEARNE.

All political papers in the State, exchanging with the Telegram, are requested to publish this note, with the article, as a favor to myself and an act of justice to Mr. Turner.

W. A. H.

Hon. Josiah Turner on the Men he now Assumes to Lead and Control.

To-day we present extended extracts from the petition of Mr. Turner for pardon, made to President Johnson, August 29th, 1865.

We have been forced into this crusade with this gentleman, and we here announce that only eternity may limit the extent to which this war can be carried. We undertook to follow the calling of a legitimate profession here in the city of Raleigh, and the assurance on which we came before the people of North Carolina, with the Telegram, was justified by a life record established on the principles of government which the people of this State and the Southern States had always cherished and held, and our course here was intended to be, and has been, consistent with that record, and those principles throughout, and we challenge to the contrary.

But how stands it with him who has assailed us without cause, and with all his power and influence essayed to stop the very bread that sustains our life?

We find, from the earliest period of his political life, that he has been a party agitator, a social disorganizer, a political revolutionist, a local pest, chronic growler, and office—seeking demagogue; a very viper, an abolitionist, a red republican and a communist.

Six years ago, we find him indulging in the vilest denunciations toward the great body of the Southern people, at a time too, mwhen, aid the scenes of a silent awe and crushing overthrow, and with a community of saddest sorrow and heart-broken suffering that even touched the hearts of their very enemies and conquerors, should have moved even a demon to some sign of commiseration and pity.

Six years ago, we find this man, who now assumes to lead and control the great body of the white people of North Carolina, denouncing, ridiculing and slandering seven tenths of the very men who now submit to his party-lash, as they were then compelled to bear his taunts and endure his insults.

Where is the shame that ought to crimson even the brassy cheek and hardened devil-begrimmed countenance to this enemy of his own people, and ruthless smiter of the very breast that gave him suck! Behold the fratricide, parricide and enemy of his kind, all blended in one—a being whose hand is raised against every man!

And tell us, Democratic and Conservative people of North Carolina, if this is the man to receive your pecuniary rewards, and political favors, even though he does drive and keep you under the smart and crack of his scorpion-like whip-lash!—Era.

Senator Sprague.

A New Yorker visited Providence and Narragansett Park during the recent races. For the first few days after his return he answered all question by simply saying.

"Sprague."

During a lucid interval he made the following explanation:

I left this city in one of the New York and Providence line of steamboats. On going through Hell Gate, I remarked to a fellow-passenger that the company provided comfortable and substantial boats for the Sound travelers.

"The company don't own those boats now, they have been sold to a rich Providence man," replied my companion."

"Who is the lucky man?"

"Sprague."

During a lucid interval he made the following explanation:

I left this city in one of the New York and Providence line of steamboats. On going through Hell Gate, I remarked to a fellow-passenger that the company provided comfortable and substantial boats for the Sound travelers.

"The company don't own those boats now, they have been sold to a rich Providence man," replied my companion."

"Who is the lucky man?"

"Sprague."

"Who owns that place?" said I to a Providence man.

"Sprague."

Just before reaching Providence a beautiful yacht passed us. She skimmed over the water as graceful as a swan.

"There goes the fastest yacht in these waters," said the Providence man.

"Who owns her?"

"Sprague."

On landing I stepped into a horse car. It was very light, neet and clean.

"I am glad to see that there is one company in the United States that knows how to run a horse railroad," said I to my Providence friend.

"This is not owned by a company. All the railroads in this city are run by one individual.

"Who is that public benefactor?"

"Sprague."

On the way up town a number of large trucks, each drawn by four black horses; passed us. On the sides of the truck I read the words, "Sprague Mowing Machine Company."

In the main street of the town a number of trucks loaded with dry goods boxes passed us. The trucks were labeled "Sprague's Print Works."

"Let us take a walk up Hope street," said my Providence friend.

Hope street was lined with aristocratic mansions. One princely residence, with extensive grounds, hot-house and stables, threw them all in the shade. Of course I enquired:

"Who owns this place?"

"Sprague."

While driviag out to Narragansett Park we passed a large factory surrounded by several streets of cosy white houses, all built alike.

"Those houses were built by one man for his workmen to live in."

"Who is it that cares so much for the workingman?"

"Sprague."

Arriving at the park, my friend called my attention to a long row of substantial, handsome stables.

"Here," said he, "all horses intended to participate in the races are kept free of expense."

"Who does this hospitable thing?"

"Sprague."

"Now, step into the grand stand, and look over the finest race track and surroundings in the world."

"Who has done all this?"

"Sprague."

Just then the bell rang to summons the horses for a trot. Out came Henry, Hotspur, Elmo and Rhode Island. They are all beauties. Rhode Island was the handsomest. His skin shone like black satin. He was full of electricity.

"Who owns Rhode Island?"

"Shrague,"

I now thought I had a sure thing. I bet all my money. Surely the horse that would win the race would be Sprague

Convention Defeated!!

From 10,000 to 12,000 Majority.

NO REVOLUTION.

THE RESULT.

The returns come in slowly. It will be some days, perhaps a week, before we shall have the official vote. The Convention has been defeated by a majority of from 10,000 to 12,000.

The result in this county we give elsewhere. Perquimans gives a majority of 269 against Convention, a gain of 130 on the vote of 1870. Chowan's majority is 119, a gain of 70. Washington goes 456 against Convention, a gain of 219. Bertie over 600, a gain of about 100. Camden's majority for Convention is 2, a gain in our favor of about 80. In Beaufort we have a gain. Martin goes against Convention by a small majority. In Hertford the vote is close. Currituck for Convention 280, a gain in our favor 239. Dare against Convention 45, a gain in our favor of 139. Halifax against Convention 1978.

PASQUOTANK COUNTY O. K.

A GAIN OF 330 VOTES.

Her People reiterate at the ballot box what they declared in County Convention.

EMPHATICALLY OPPOSED TO ANARCHY AND REVOLUTION, AND STEADFASTLY IN FAVOR OF LAW, ORDER AND PEACE.

"Our Senator" Disgusted, AND CONVENTION "NO WHAR."

The Captain beats the Colonel 383 Votes.

"Everything is Lovely And the Goose Hangs High."

The election in this County on Thursday last resulted in a glorious victory against the revolutionary Democracy. The official vote is given elsewhere. It will be seen that the Convention is defeated by a majority of 413 votes. Our majority last year was only 83. We have made a gain of 330. A pretty good day's work. Col. MARTIN is beaten by Capt. GRANDY 383 votes. Well done for the Captain. He don't feel any the worse because of the good, big majority.

We feel that this is a victory in favor of the Constitution, of law, of order and of peace. Immigration, that has been temporarily checked, will again begin, and capital will feel safer in investing here. Business men will feel encouragement to embark in larger and permanent operations and now we may all confidently look for a more prosperous future.

OUR TRUCKING ADVANTAGES.

We have time and again called public attention to the fact that there is no country superior to this in its possibilities for profitable tracking. The soil and the climate peculiarly adopt it for the raising of early raddishes, peas, potatoes, tomatoes, strawberries, corn, watermelons, black-berries, peaches, grapes, etc. Not only do these all ripen and mature earlier here, but the Commission Merchants of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York assure us that they reach them in much better condition than from any other section. This fact, in connection with the other important one—their reaching market from ten to twelve days earlier than any point North of us, enables them to get better prices for our vegetables and fruit.

Two things are essential for complete success in trucking. You must be able to get them to market early—before they begin to be shipped from other points, and you must get them there in good condition. Nature has so arranged it that the energetic and industrious Trucker of Eastern North Carolina, especially in all these counties near the Atlantic coast, can take advantage of these two important essentials. The soil is naturally good. Comparatively speaking it is a hot bed. With proper care and cultivation it can be made to bring forth early and in great abundance.

Of course a different process of culture must be adopted to accomplish the best results. Here and there an intelligent and enterprizing Northern man has embarked in the business. They are making it pay. The attention of others are being attracted this way. There are fortunes in the business here. At first we can supply Norfolk with our earliest products, for we are ten days earlier than their truckers can be. As soon as that City began to be supplied by the local trade, we could send to Baltimore, then to Philadelphia, and lastly to New York, always having the advantages of sending the first supplied and, of course, getting the best prices. This country is destined to be the garden of the large Northern Cities.

TOO FAST.

Fast living, in the sense of such living as shortens life, is a much more common evil than is generally regarded. We have been an observer of faces and character for a long time, as we have had opportunity in cars, stage-coaches, and our daily intercourse with men, and we believe that in the vast majority of cases it would be found that the rapidity of the pulse in America is above the normal standard. Every man's life may be measured by pulse beats. He will live, accidents excepted, to make a definite number of these, and his life shortened in proportion to the excess of work performed by his vital organs in a given time.

Excitement, physical or mental, is the cause of the rapid rate at which most American people are living. The love for excitement is a vice as positively evil in its effects as the love for strong drink, licentiousness or gambling. It matters not what kind of excitement; all excitement is fast living, and begets a feeling of exhaustion in intervals of indulgence, which clamors for relief from some other form of stimulant.

Thus it is that the universal demand for artificial stimulants has increased, until perhaps there is not one in a thousand who does not resort to something of this kind. Alcohol, absinthe, opium, hashish, tobacco, coffee, tea, or whatever else it may be, is taken to support the system under the effect of mental prostration, and to supply in another form the excitement which it craves.

Now all this is just the reverse of what should be the case. Instead of seeking excitement, health and long life demand that we should shun it. The natural, healthy condition of the body and mind is that of unruffled calmness. If excitements occur, they should be exceptional, and not the rule of life. As soon as they become a necessity there is diseased state of mind and body, and the candle begins to burn at both ends.

TRIBULATIONS OF THE DEMOCRACY.

The present confusion of tongues among the leaders of the Democratic Party must be very perplexing to the rank and file, whose only anxiety is to know what constitutes, or is likely to constitute, the genuine Democratic doctrine. So long as they were all working together on their tower of Babel, useless and unsightful as was the structure, the outside would know where to find them and what they were about. But since the "new departure," they have dispersed themselves through the wilderness, and each one appears to have set to work to build a cabin house tower of his own. JEFF DAVIS, STEPHENS, TOOMBS and others, who were the leading architects in the old structure, still insist upon adhering to the original designs; while HOFFMAN, ADAMS and other Northern "bosses" propose to build on a new plan altogether. But when it comes to details, they all disagree with each other, and the masses are experiencing a "confusion confounded." Verily, there is tribulation in the Democratic Party. May it increase!

COMPOSITION OF COTTON-SEED.—A careful analysis of cotton-seed shows that it contains thirty-seven per cent. of oil; thirty-four per cent. of albumen; eleven per cent. of gum; seven per cent. of fiber; six per cent. of water; and seven per cent. of mineral water. A tun of unhulled cotton-seed yields about thirty-five gallons of crude cotton-seed oil and seven hundred pounds of oil-cake; but it requires great hydraulic pressure to express the oil from the seed, and in the present state of the mills used for this purpose the cost of machinery and labor renders the process one of great trouble and expense. It is said that no oil-mill can be profitably worked that has not a capital employed in its management of from $40,000 to $50,000.

The women question has split into two branches, to wit. "What did she have on?" and, "Will it wash?"

MISTAKEN IDEAS.

There is no more grievous error made by young men reared in the country and thoroughly acquainted with all that pertains to the noble work of farming than that of abandoning the farm and making their way into large cities in quest of employment. A desire to better our condition in life is laudable, and that it should develope itself among the hale and strong young men of the country is not surprising. But going to cities is not always the best course. True the instances are many where such immigrants have admirably adapted themselves to city life and become rich and prosperous in adopted pursuits; but the number of those who have lost by the change preponderate.

The young man on entering the City finds himself surrounded with strange people too much occupied within themselves and their business to take any interest in him, and he has a long and wearisome hunt before he can obtain any employment, if he be ever so willing to engage at any kind of work. The instances are numerous where, driven to desperation, and too proud to return to the old farm, these youths forget their early training, and are transformed into thievs to supply their actual necessities. It is a mistaken idea that life amidst the toil and bustle of the active City is happier and more to be enjoyed than the quiet, independent one of the farmer, and after a brief experience, young men generally find it so.

None are happier in this world than the contented Yeoman who derives a comfortable living by tilling the soil, and he is foolish who abandons that life to run the gauntlet of risks, temptations and uncertainties in the city.

TAMPERING WITH COIN.

The last report of the Mint at Philadelphia contains some interesting information in regard to the various methods of counterfeiting gold coins, or abstracting from them a part of their value. In one lot of 1,000, there were 34 double eagles. Two of these had been burnt or blistered, but as they were very slightly under weight, the object of the roasting had not been discovered. The other pieces were all from 10 to 20 grains light—that is, reduced from 40 to 80 cents in value. One was filled smoothly nearly all around in the outer edge, but all the others retained the "milling," which had been restored after the filling. In this way, fifty cents' worth of gold was taken from each piece without sensible diminishing its diameter. In one or two cases, where from 22½ to 58½ grains had been taken away, the eye could detect the loss.

One piece was reduced by the use of acid. This treatment makes the surface rough, so that it is easily detected. In the same lot there were ten eagles which had been filed, and two treated with acid, the latter being quite spoiled. A number of counterfeits were found in the same lot. The best piece was light only two and a-half grains, but some of its lettering was very bad. This piece contained about 69 per cent. pure gold, the genuine coin containing 90 per cent. Some of the poorer pieces contain only about 50 per cent. Another lot of coins had been split and filed with platinum. The best method of detecting filed or counterfeit pieces is by finding their specific gravity by weighing in water.

THE NAMES OF PAPER.—Printers are sometimes asked why various kinds of papers obtained the peculiar names they bear. Here is the reason: In ancient times, when comparatively few people could read, pictures of every kind were much in use where writing would now be employed. Every shop, for instance, had its sign, as well as every public house; and those signs were not then, as they are often now, only painted upon a board, but were invariably actual models of the thing which the sign expressed—as we still occasionally see some such sign as a bee-hive, a tea-canister, or a doll, and the like. For the same reason printers employed some device, which they put upon the title-pages and at the end of their books. And paper-makers also introduced marks by way of distinguishing the paper of their manufacture from that of others; which marks, becoming common, naturally gave their names to different sorts of paper. A favorite paper-mark between 1540 and 1560 was the jug or pot, and would appear to have originated the term pot paper. The foolscap was a later device, and does not appear to have been nearly of such long continuance as the former. It has given place to the figure of Britannia, or that of a lion rampant supporting the cap of liberty on a pole. The name, however, has continued, and we still denominate paper of a particular size by the title of "foolscap." Post paper seems to have derived its name from the post horn, which at one time was its distinguishing mark. It does not appear to have been used prior to the establishment of the general post-office, (1670,) when it became a custom to blow a horn; to which circumstance, no doubt, we may attribute its introduction. Bath post is so named after that fashionable city.

A PICTURE.

New York City is governed by the Democracy: the National Government by the Republicans. We ask our readers to look upon this picture:

DEBT OF NEW YORK CITY.

Dec. 31, 1869	$34,407,047
April 30, 1871	84,541,186
Increase in 28 months	$50,134,139

And upon this;

DEBT OF THE UNITED STATES

March 4, 1869	$2,525,457,259
Aug. 1, 1871	2,283,328,858
Decrease in 29 months	$242,128,401.

Is there any need of comment?

FRUITS OF GRANT'S ADMINISTRATION.

Our National Republican Administration continues to bring forth good fruits. It does this each month in a steady decrease of the Public Debt. For the month of July the decrease is $8,701,976-92, which is a fair average diminution. Since March 1, 1869 the debt has been reduced $242,134,402, a splendid amount for a nation yet recovering from the disastrous effects of a civil war to pay off.

NEW REVENUE STAMPS.—The proposed new adhesive stamps for the Revenue Department, while possessing in their different classes a general uniformity, no one can be used for the other by alteration of the denomination. The vignette on each class is the head of Washington, printed in soluble ink, and having all the appearance of steel-plate printing, while the framework or border is printed in permanent ink of blue and green. The highest denomination of the present series is two hundred dollars. In the new series there will be a stamp of the denomination of five thousand dollars, designed to accommodate railroad, banking, and insurrance companies. The vignette where the cancellation marks are to be written or printed will disappear on the slightest application of acids, so that the re-use of stamps by washing off the cancellation, which is now a common occurrence, will be prevented. The use of tinted chameleon paper, on which they are to be printed, will also afford additional security against their re-issue.

A large number of the witneses summoned before the KuKlux Investigating Committee have so far failed to respond, others have skipped over into Canada, and still a larger number, who are supposed to be influential members in that highly and respectable body, have refused to testify, assigning various reasons for their refusals. We hope every one of them will be made to reveal all he knows, in order that the country may learn the extent of the villainies of these desperadoes, who have been carrying on their traitorous purposes beneath the disguises of this contemptible banditti. Enough has been already proven to justify the Government in its efforts first to learn the whole truth, and then to lend the helping hand to the suffering Blacks and Unionists of the South.

DEATH OF PHOEBE CARY.

The poetess PHOEBE CARY is dead. She died at Newport, R. I on the 31st ult. She was born near Cincinnati, Ohio, in the year 1824. From her early childhood she exhibited marked literary acquirements, and her sister Alice owed not a little of her fair fame to the promptings and suggestions of her sister. The first appearance of Phœbe's writing was in 1850, when the two sisters published a volume of poems which was the result of their combined efforts. Her sister Alice died only a few months ago.

A Syracuse paper records the recent mysterious disappearance of John Smith—Ex.

Almost any town in the country will undertake to supply another on demand. The family is quite extensive.

Corea.

Corea is a vast peninsula, northeast of China, from which it is separated by the Yellow Sea. The population is estimated at 10,000,000. The country is divided into 8 provinces and contains some 360 cities and towns. The government is a despotism, and all the lands are held from the sovereign, who claims, one-tenth of the agricultural produce as an annual tribute. The area of the peninsula is 79,414 miles, exclusive of the numerous islands which surround its southern shores. It is a land of mountains, many on the sea-board reaching an elevation of from 1,000 to 8,000 feet. The chief river is the Ya-lukiang, which partly forms the northern boundary, but which is admitted by all to belong to Corea; it is called the Aye-kiang by the Chinese. The navigation of the eastern branch of this stream is interdicted by the Coreans, and Chinamen found attempting to use it are put to death. Sandbanks are numerous on this river, and there is a sand-bar at each of its mouths. But the Chinese declare that navigation is comparatively easy, and that large steamers could enter the eastern branch. The western coast is dangerous, owing partly to the strong tides among the islands and rocks. On the eastern coast, however, there is deep water, several excellent harbors, of which Chosan, on the south, and Broughton, on the North, are best known.

The climate is magnificent, for Corea possesses not only all the advantages of hill and dale, and river and sea, but living in the very mouth of the great Chinese channel, it receives the full force of the southeast monsoon, with all of its fertilizing and genial influences. As a consequence, many of its productions reach a maturity and perfection far surpassing those of North China. The winter is also much less severe, and the summer is far more enjoyable than on the mainland. The people clearly belong to the same stock as the Mongols, Manchus, Japanese, and Chinese. They are brave and are true friends but dangerous foes. Looked at from a commercial point of view, the Coreans are undountedly possessed of considerable igenuity, as evinced in sheir garments and manufactures. The cotton produced in Corea is far superior to that in any part of China; it is long in the staple and fine in quality, just like the best kinds of Carolina cotton. The Coreans are very fond of foreign cotton-cloth, and buy it largely from the Chinese at the gates. They also smuggle considerable quantities of it every year on the coast. The country teems with mineral wealth and has vast undeveloped resources of all kinds. The people possess capacities of no mean description; they are intelligent, acute, and ingenious. China injures the trade of the peninsula by pernicious regulations. There are only three places where trade with the Chinese is allowed, and at these only for brief periods at stated intervals. These trading-places are called "gates," the first of which is on the south of Fung-Whang-Chung, the second near Hun-Chun, and the third is now hardly anything else than a military station.

It is said some babies are so small that they can creep into a quart measure; but the way in which some adults can walk into such measures is astonishing.

Man was never intended to be idle.—Inactivity frustrates the very design of his creation; whereas an active life is the best guardian of virtue and the greatest preservative of health.

A Philadelphia paper has been for a long time publishing a series of articles on the cemeteries of that city. It is difficult for it, however, to make a live subject of so grave a topic.

Papers in New-England especially, of all political parties, are greatly pleased at the reported selection of Hon. Charles Francis Adams to represent the United States in the Geneva Conference.

A young woman in Connecticut recently, when sick, mortgaged her body to her physician for dissection in case of death, as compensation for professional attendance upon her. And then maliciously she got well.

A convicted murderer, in Ohio, when asked if he had anything to say before sentence of death was passed upon him, began a long and rambling speech with the apologetic remark: "I have, Sir, I have a very bad cold, your Honor."

The True Woman gives as one reason why woman should not vote, that the tongues of women are very nimble and very sharp; the temptation to use them in political strife at every family meal during election time would be great.

A resident of Baltimore, who attempted to stop a little fight between his Newfoundland dog and a smaller cur, was turned upon by the former and very badly bitten. His wife, who came to his assistance, was also painfully wounded by the teeth of the enraged animal.

A disrespectful wretch stole the shirt of a Lockport Judge, and when brought before his lordship for trial, dispalyed the stolen shirt upon his person, starched and spotless. The Judge, overcome at the sight of such spotless linen, dismissed the thought that such a gentleman could be a rogue.

With a feeling somewhat like despair, the Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist remarks that it certainly will require a Democratic President, (meaning by this, however, merely a Democratic candidate for the Presidency,) of most exemplary purity of character to counteract the evil deeds of Tammany.

A private letter to the editor of the Wilmington Journal, from a friend at Little's Mills, Richmond county, conveys the distressing intelligence that the crops in that section are irretrievably ruined. There has been no rain there in five weeks and the suffering and distress for the want of it is great.

A gypsy woman the other day persuaded a credulous Missouri farmer to search for hidden treasure on his land under her instructions, after he had depesited $3,200 in a place known only to herself and to him. Her "spells and incantations" failed to have the result expected by him, and when he looked for the money, after the lapse of ten days, that was gone. And so was the gypsy woman.

Out of the three hundred and seven millions of people carried on English railroads in 1869. only seventeen were killed by causes beyond their own control, while in the streets of London one hundred and forty persons were killed, and it is estimated that the orange-peel on London pavements kills more than all the English railroads.

Democrats into power, so that they could do away with the new amendments. He claimed if State Rights, in the sense of State sovereignty, were right, then rebellion was right. He criticised the use of alleged sectional school-books, and the restrictions on the blacks in Public School laws in Kentucky, arguing that the blacks should be put on the same footing as the whites, and that the idea of the inferiority of the black race was an old fogy notion. The main points of his speech were similar to those of his recent speeches already published. Earnest attention was paid to his speech throughout, and the Senator was frequently and heartily applauded.

Mrs. N. J. Saviers, of Carson, Nevada, arrived at Stockton on the 1st ult, and learning that her husband was staying at a hotel there with another woman, she went to their room and shot the woman three times with a revolver, inflicting mortal wounds. Senator Morton addressed a Republican meeting in Louisville on Friday evening. Rocky Mountain Jim, a noted character in the far West, who has had all sorts of adventures and fights with bears and Indians was attacked a few days since, near Hot Springs, Middle Park, by a fierce cinnamon bear. He has been a Rocky Mountain ranger for 30 years.

The Philadelphia Press, yesterday, entered upon its fiftieth annual volume. It announces that so long as there remains a single district in the South where ex-slaveholders and rebels, with their following of reckless and besotted tools, can whip, maim or murder Republicans, black and white, without fear of punishment except from the General Government, the Press will recognize as still existing the accursed demon of slavery and rebellion, and warn the people accordingly.

A New-Orleans paper gives a ludicrous account of a challenge sent many years ago in Mississippi by Robert J. Walker to Dr. Wm. M. Gwin, before either of them became known to fame, Gwin, though not caring to fight, accepted, and chose tomahawks, and afterward gave out that he practiced daily with great success. Walker felt tempted to see his antagonist's practice, and the Doctor, learning of his purpose, exhibited himself so grotesquely that they both burst into laughter, and became fast friends,

If one may credit the Richmond (Va.) Whig, there is now in that city a curiously shaped bamboo root. Holding it in one position, it says, you see clearly defined in outline and recognizable at a glance, a bull's head and three cows' heads. Reversing it, a sheep's head appears to view, exact and faithful to nature as if carved by some skilled hand. The heads of two African antelopes, a boar's head, a greyhound's, a bull dog's, a squirrel sitting on a stump, a tobacco worm, complete this strange jumble of representations of animal life.

A delicate task it was to select from 2,000 young ladies of Berlin one who should have the honor of presenting the golden laurel wreath and delivering the ode of welcome to the Emperor William upon his entrance into his capitol. More than that number, however, made application for the position; and the one finally intrusted with the task was selected, not only because of her great beauty, but also because she had distinguished herself during the war as a hospital nurse. The Emperor will hearafter take care of the lady, and in case of her marriage give her a dower of $5,000.

There is in Atlanta, Georgia, a woman shoemaker. Her husband, who fell battleing for the South, left her his kit of tools only as a legacy; and, hard times coming on, this moral heroine has taken the strap and the last, and is pegging out an honest livelihood. This is not the only instance of a successful female shoemaker. One of the most beautiful and accomplished dancers who ever appeared on the stage—in fact the most beautiful—had in her possession a dainty kit by the aid of which, with her own fair little hands, she made all the shoes she ever wore before the public. The last on which the shoes were made has been looked upon as a curiosity of interest by cordwainers, and was turned as an exact model of the little body's foot. It is considered the most perfect specimen of nedal symmetry ever seen.

According to an apparently disinterested witness, the experiment commenced a little more than a year ago at North Adams, Mass., of setting imported Chinamen to compete at low wages with native workmen, has succeeded beyond all expectation. An apprenticeship of four weeks enabled the Chinaman to manufacture a good marketable shoe, and they are now said to be equal in respect of dexterity and rapidity of work to most of the natives who have served a much longer apprenticeship. Many of them have adopted our dress, and all are more or less advanced in the knowledge of the English language and American civilization. They gratefully acknowledge any kindness shown them, and in industry, neatness, and cheerfulness offer an example worth of imitation by their Yankee competitors. Their orderly habits have done much to dispel the prejudice originally existing against them, and the announcement that they are soon to be joined by fifty more of their countrymen is received without protest or indignation.

Hon. James Speed, who has been prevented by the condition of his health and the duties of his profession from making any political speeches in Kentucky during the present campaign, has written a letter in which he unreservedly endorses the administration of President Grant, saying that, viewed fairly and impartially, it has been a success. He says; "Under his administration many of the most difficult and intricate questions have been solved; predicted wars have been averted by timely and wise measures. The taxes have been faithfully collected and honestly applied, taxation has been reduced, the public debt paid in anticipation, and the honor and credit of the nation maintained. What man could do more? My hope for our State and for the nation is the development of Republican principles. That development may be impeded, it cannot be stopped. Sooner or later Kentucky must yield to its enlightening influences. And then, with all her shackles cast off, she will enter upon a career of prosperity such as she has never before known."

A Michigan man who was recently buried in a well thirty feet from the surface of the ground, by its caving in on him, was rescued after nearly eight hours of torture. He attributes his escape to three large stones which lodged just over his head and prevented a large amount of dirt and stones from falling upon and suffocating him. He experienced no difficulty in breathing, but suffered greatly from the cold. His legs were wedged in with stone, and he found himself unable to move. He heard plainly persons at work above and their conversation; how the news should be forwarded to his friends, and even what arrangements should be made for his funeral. The crying of women and children, and the fears expressed were distinctly heard, yet he was unable to attract the attention of his rescuers. He suffered the keenest mental tortures, fearing that when the workmen should approach him the earth and stones would be loosened and precipitated upon him, with instant death. Finally he succeeded in making himself heard and directed the progress of the excavators.

NOTICE!

State of North

NORTH CAROLINIAN

THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1871.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call attention to the following new advertisement in this issue.

New York Advertisements.
Notice to Creditors.

Local and Personal.

☞ Hon. C. C. POOL left on Monday to join his family at New Port, R. I.

☞ "Gone up Salt River"—the Democratic leaders of most of these Eastern counties.

☞ As to respecting old age our Devil insists that it very much depends whether it applies to men, women or poultry.

☞ GRANT B. THOMPSON has moved into his new house on Pennsylvania Avenue. It is a very handsome building, and it is located in a desirable part of the new addition to the City.

☞ Shrewd business men keep up their trade in dull times by advertising. In such times purchasers appreciate the value of each dime they expend, and can the papers to see where they can buy to the best advantage.

☞ Now that the election is over we propose devoting renewed attention to the great material interests of this section. Let everybody go to work, each man doing what he can to build up and advance the common good. The NORTH CAROLINIAN will do its full duty.

☞ It will not do to have a great field for little crops, nor to mow twenty acres for five loads of hay. This is an old adage with the good farmer of the North. The true plan is to enrich the land; it will pay you for it. Better farm twenty acres well, than fifty acres badly.

☞ Mr. GEO. C. BRODERICK, who for the past six months has been occupying the position of Teller in the Banking House of the Loan and Trust Company here, left for his home in Havana N. Y. Monday morning. During his stay with us he impressed our people very favorably both as a young man of correct habits and of excellent business qualification. We but express the wish of all our people when we say that we hope he will return in the autumn.

☞ From all sections we are receiving letters assuring us that the NORTH CAROLINIAN has exerted a decided influence against the unconstitutional and illegal attempt to change the fundamental law of the State. We acknowledge the compliment in saying that it but simply did its duty. Now that the election is over it will try to wield as much influence in favor of industry, development and progress. And it desires the co-operation of every true friend of North Carolina in the good work.

☞ It is impossible to please everybody. The editor who attempts it seldom succeeds in pleasing anybody. Long ago we adopted the motto of the great Bard

"to thine own self be true
And it must follow as the night the day
Thou can't not then be false to any man," and hence in our editorial course we have always tried to be true to our convictions of right and duty. The result has been that while all have not always agreed with us none have failed to respect us. We feel a good deal like the great HENRY CLAY who declared that he would rather be right than President.

☞ The local paper is an absolute necessity to the country and community where it is published. All the city papers cannot supply the place of the home paper. That should be the first love of every man and woman, for with the paper is the locality identified. The paper gives the country and town where it is printed much of their importance in the world, and gives in detail the local news, which cannot be gained by any other source.

☞ The reader of newspapers who ignores the advertisements, loses a large share of the entertainment and instruction that are provided for him. A well arranged, attractively displayed advertisement is always worth reading. There is no one, no matter what his business or circumstances may be, who will not find something interesting, and not seldom, something profitable, in the advertising columns of any good paper. Always read the advertisements.

☞ When a Northern man moves here, especially if he is a man of intelligence, the natives expect him to be a Republican. If he is not, the better class of people can't help wondering why? They have greater respect for the man that has courage enough to be true to his colors than for the one who

"Fawns that thrift may follow."

Nor will the effort to "carry water on both shoulders" succeed any better. A forfeiture of the respect and confidence of all parties is sure to follow.

☞ Below we give the official vote of this township. It will be seen that the Convention was defeated by a majority of 96, Capt. GRANDY beats Col. MARTIN 81 votes, and the entire Republican ticket elected by an average majority of 100.

For Convention 152. Against Convention 248

Delegates—C. W. Grandy 239, W. F. Martin 158.

Court-House—For Court-House 536. Against Court-House 946.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Magistrates—Geo. W. Cobb 265, Wm. Krauss 249, C. W. Smith 240, Jabez Pritchard 247, Thos. A. Sykes 243, B. F. Keaton 243, Hugh Cale 288, W. W. Griffin 156, Geo. W. Charles 159, W. H. Clark 153, W. W. Kennedy 153, W. G. Burgess 153, Sam. Cartwright 144, T. D. Pendleton 148.

Township Clerk—Joseph Commander 246, J. Q. Etheridge 152.

Constable—J. H. Miskell 265, J. B. Robinson 130.

School Committee—Whitmon Lane 244, Charles Guirkin 250, Arthur L. Jones 242, C. C. Green, 153, Geo. W. Bell 145, L. C. Dashiell 156.

☞ What does it mean?—a man, not an officer of the Board, standing all day at the ballot box with book and pencil closely watching how each man votes, and writing down the names of those voting the Republican ticket, remarking "the object is to spot them." The attempt to brow beat and intimidate did not succeed. But we'd like to know what the threatened "spotting" means.

☞ We commend the following to those who write for the papers:

When writing an article for the press,
Whether prose or verse just try
To utter your thoughts in the fewest words
And let them be crisp and dry;
And when it is finished, and you suppose
It is done exactly brown,
Just look it over again, and then
Boil it down.

For editors do not like to print
An article lazily long,
And the general reader does not care
For a couple of yards of song.
So gather your wits for the smallest space,
If you'd win the author's crown;
And every time you write, my friend,
Boil it down.

☞ Ever since the days of Horace it has been the custom of men of leisure to seek the cool and refreshing regions of some watering place while the "Dog-star rages." In this section the practice is still kept up—the people annually making their summer pilgrimage to Nag's Head. To accomodate them A. E. Jacobs regularly reopens the Alexina House, and this season our townsman J. M. Whedbee is the Proprietor. He spares no effort to make his guests comfortable and to enable them to reap all the benefits of a season spent there.

☞ The alarm of fire was sounded on Thursday evening. It was found to be in Mr. STEGER'S Warehouse. He discovered that a barrel of Gasoline was leaking. He took a lantern and went in to stop it, setting the lantern down near the door. All at once the gas ignited and it required great effort to extinguish the fire. Had these efforts failed there would have been an extensive conflageration on Road Street. Much praise is due CHARLES FEARING, a colored man, for his presence of mind and personal efforts in putting out the fire. We are requested by Mr. STEGER to return his thanks to our citizens for their prompt assistance.

☞ One of our exchanges has the following allegory which we commend to the careful consideration of those gentlemen, who the moment they see anything which displeases them in the columns of their local journal, rush to the printing office and cry out, "stop my paper:"

"A certain man hit his toe against a pebble and fell headlong to the ground. He was vexed, and under the influence of anger and self-sufficiency he kicked the earth right saucily. With imperturable gravity he looked to see the earth itself dissolve and come to naught. But the earth remained, and only his poor foot was injured in the encounter. This is the way of man. An article in a newspaper touches him in a weak spot, and forthwith he sends to stop his paper. With great complacency he looks to see the crash, when he finds he only hit his own toe against a world that does not perceptibly feel the shock, and injures no one but himself.

☞ "Leon" wants to know who St. PATRICK was. We answer: St. PATRICK, the apostle or patron saint Ireland, is supposed to have been born in the southwest of Scotland, between Dunbarton and Glasgow. The chief account of St. Patrick, is from his own writings, the "Confession." His original name Maur or Sacutus, but this was changed to Practicus by Pope Celestine in 433 when he consecrated him Bishop, and sent him as a missionary to Ireland. St. Patrick, it is reported, founded many schools and abbeys in Ireland. He is said to have effected miracles, particularly that of extirpating all venomous animals from the Island. "The end of his life," says the Chronicle "was devoted to acts of piety and benevolence and he died at an extreme old age at the end of the sixth Century."

☞ In reply to an inquiring correspondent we thus briefly give the history of the "red cent." The cent was first proposed by ROBERT MORRIS, the great financier of the revolution, and was named by Jefferson two years after. It began to make its appearance from the Mint in 1792. It bore the head of Washington on one side and thirteen links on the other. The French revolution soon created a rage for French ideas in America, which put on the cent, instead of the head of Washington the head of the goddess of liberty—a French liberty, with flowing locks. The chain on the reverse was replaced by the olive wreath of peace. But the French liberty was short-lived, and so was her portrait on our cent. The next head or figure succeeding this—the staid classic dame, with a fillet around her hair—came into fashion about thirty or forty years ago, and her finely chiseled Grecian features have but slightly altered in the lapse of time."

☞ We just have time to announce before going to press that the case of Dr. UNDERWOOD referred to a few weeks ago was tried at Norfolk on Tuesday and he was triumphantly acquited—the jury returning a verdict of not guilty before leaving the box. Particulars next week.

OUR LOCAL PORT-FOLIO.

Quite common now—wilted shirt collars. Ode to the printer—two dollars. A town pump—the local editor. How to get sweet sleep—keep a quiet conscience. A guard to virtue—modesty. A free agent—one who goes of with his employee's money. The ties that bind business men with the public—advertisc. Sensible—the gentlemen who are sending us new subscribers. Still at work—the hands on the streets. Another improvement—the new fence going up around the Baptist burying ground. One of the uses of adversity is to bring us out—especially at the knees and elbows. Matchless misery—a cigar with nothing to light it. Youth's companion—a pretty girl. "A pound of flesh"—a prize fight. About as hard to pick up as greenbacks—local items. Jonah was punished—by being whaled. Disgusted with the result of the election—"our Senator." Down in the mouth—the Democrats of this county. Feeling quite comfortable—the Republicans. Wearing long faces—the Conventionists.

Business Locals.

Still at it—Keaton selling goods as cheap as ever. And he intends to keep at it because those who go once always go and buy of him again, and many now go who never went before.

J. L. Winner will open in the town of Edenton, on or about the 15th inst, a Photograph Gallery. Having one of the finest and most complete outfits ever brought to this country, and with over 20 years experience in the business, he is satisfied that his work cannot be surpassed. In connection with the above I shall open a first class Jewelry and Watch Making establishment.

ABOUT MRS. WHARTON.—Yesterday there were circulating throughout the city a variety of rumors concerning what is now called the "Wharton case." The fact of the disinterment of the remains of Mrs. Wharton's son excited considerable surprise. Mrs. Wharton received $35,000 from insurance companies upon the life of her son. It was rumored that a family residing on Stricker-street, and intimate friends of Mrs. Wharton had suffered from the effects of her supposed intimate knowledge of the use of poison. It is said that Mrs. Wharton borrowed $2,000 from one member of the family in question and on the day she left home for the jail the money was paid principal and interest. Nothing to show her indebtedness was in possession of the lady to whom the money was paid, who is now in very bad health. The lady who loaned the money visited Mrs. Wharton's residence some time since, and, after leaving there, in a few moments was seized with convulsions, taken to Mrs. Wharton's residence again, and by direction of the physician who had been summoned, was immediately removed from Mrs. Wharton's house. The physician, it is said, insisted that the lady should be at once removed from Mrs. Wharton's. His directions were complied with, a carriage procured, and the lady taken to the residence of her sister in law. Her friends think that some person gave her strychnine.—Baltimore American.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

DEBILITY AND EMACIATION.—Both result from the lack of ability to convert the food into nutriment. How necessary then, for those suffering from these alarming symptoms to immediately resort to a remedy that will strengthen the stomach and digestive organs. For, as soon as this desirable object has been accomplished the health improves, and the patient resumes his usual personal appearance. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have attained a world-wide popularity in such cases, and have been proven the best and safest means of removing constipation, toning the stomach, giving energy to the liver, and relieving every symptom of nervousness and depression of spirits. Its cheering and beneficial effects are highly spoken of by thousands, who owe to it their restoration to health. No restorative in the annals of medicine has attained the same popularity in the short space of time it has been before the public, or has won the high endorsements accorded to this excellent tonic. Many other preparations, purporting to be correctives and restoratives, have been introduced, and have perished one by one, while the popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters continues to increase, and is now recognized as a standard household medicine. The success which attends the use of the Bitters evinces at once its virtues in all cases of debility and disease of the stomach. Certificates, almost without number, have been published, attesting its truly miraculous power in removing those painful diseases. And at this time it seems idle to do more than call attention to the great remedy of the age, in order to awaken public attention to its excellence. It is the only preparation of the kind that is reliable in all cases, and it is therefore worthy of the consideration of the afflicted.

THE undersigned hereby gives notice of his appointment as Assignee of W. Myres, of he county of Perquimans, who has been adjudged a Bankrupt upon his own petition by the District Court of the United States for the Albemarle District of North Carolina.

WHAT IS IT?

That causes such a rush of people to Dr Butt's Drug Store? Is it because he keeps such a large assortment of Drugs, Chemicals, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Dye Stuffs, Glass, Putty &c, &c. O yes! that is one of the reasons. All of us know that he keeps the largest and best stock of the above mentioned goods in the City, but my friends there is also another reason for this great rush to Dr. Butt's, it is his

SPLENDID SODA FOUNTAIN

the water of which is kept icy cold all the time, and we do not know of any place where a person can get cooled off so quickly and so effectually as at this Fountain. Of course every body goes there to drink and be comforted.

Now let us continue to show our appreciations of the doctor's efforts to accommodate us by drinking long and often.

☞ A list of syrups to be found at Butt's Soda Fountain. Vanilla, Vanilla and Cream, Lemon, Nectar, Metior, Sarsaparilla, Rainbow Bend, Raspberry, Conservative & Radical, Strawberry, and La Favorite, Pine Apple, Grecian Bend, Ginger, Lover's Choice, Orange, Honey Dew, &c, &c, &c.

DR. JAS. N. BUTT has just returned from Phila. and Balto. Having purchased a large and extensive stock of Drugs and everything in that line.

WE call especial attention to a brand of Zinc of which I have the exclusive control known as the "Stonewall" no better article was ever sold in this market. Dr. J. N. BUTT.

JUST received at Dr. JAS. N. BUTT'S Drug Store a large lot of fine varnish.

IF you want to buy Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Oil, Glass, Putty, Patent Medicines, Bitters, indeed everything kept in a drug house, also Pure Wine, Whiskey and French Brandy (sold only for medical purposes), call at Dr. JAS. N. BUTT'S.

VERY IMPORTANT, TO KNOW.—Can we always get at Dr. JAS. N. BUTT'S Drug Store what ever medicine we call for?—Inquirer. My dear sir you most assuredly can.

WE take great pleasure in supplying our customers with anything called for on the shortest notice and no pains are spared to keep the stock full and complete.

AGRICULTURAL, HORTICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC MATTERS.

Linseed Tea for Sick Horses.

Linseed tea is not only a valuable restorative for sick horses, but is exceedingly useful in cases of inflammation of them embranes peculiar to the organs of respiration and digestion:• it shields and lubricates the same; tranquilizes the irritable states of the parts and favors healthy action. We have prescribed linseed tea in large quantities, during the past month, for horses laboring under the prevailing influenza; they seemed to derive much benefit from it, and generally drank it with avidity. Aside from the benefit we derive from the action of mucilage and oil, which the seed contains, its nutritive elements are of some account, especially when given to animals laboring under soreness in the organs of deglutition, which incapacitates from swallowing more solid food. In the event of an animal becoming prostrated by inability to masticate or swallow more food, linseed tea may be resorted to, and in case of irritable cough, the addition of a little honey makes it still more useful. In the latter form it may be given to animals laboring under acute or chronic disease of the urinary apparatus more especially of the kidneys.

To Prepare Linseed Tea.—Put a couple of handsful of the seed into a bucket, and pour a gallon and a half of boiling water upon it. Cover it up a short time, then add, a couple of quarts of cold water, when it will be fit for use.—Exchange.

COTSWOLD SHEEP.—Mr. W. A. Latham, an English gentleman, now living in Michigan, who recently described the flock of Cotswolds owned by L. P. Taft, of Pontiac, Michigan, of which one two-year old weather sheared seven and a-half pounds of well washed wool, adds.

"I am inclined to believe that there is no better breed of sheep for profit than Costwolds in America, and I am sure that no breeders of animals of any kind have made more money, or kept their farms in higher condition than the Cotswold ram breeders on the Cotswold Hills in Gloucestershire, England. Many of them have made an independent fortune. Those who do not breed rams, breed for the butcher, selling off their cull ewes, and wether tegs every year. By this course of breeding they keep a very uniform flock of ewes, and go to the regular ram-breeders for their males. By this system they winter their wether tegs and cull ewes on turnips and good early cut hay, and in April or early in May send them shorn to Smithfield. By this means the mutton and wool bring in a good yearly income, keeping their land in a high state of cultivation. I know a great many ram breeders and sheep breeders who breed for the butcher as above, and I never knew one to fail. Good farming and sheep husbandry go hand in hand, and I cannot see why they will not answer in this country."

Improvement of Live Stock.

Inferior stock should be got rid of as soon as possible. It is a very erroneous practice to waste provender by feeding animals which will make no adequate return for the outlay. Old horses, cows and sheep are very unprofitable stock; the former are not vigorous enough to perform the labors of the farm, when most needed. Old milch cows are not fit for dairy purposes, and old breeding ewes produce small, weak lambs and very light fleeces. The improvement of his stock should be the constant aim of the farmer. This may be done by selecting the best breeding animals that can be obtained. No money is more judiciously expended than that which goes to procure the services of a first rate stallion, bull, buck or boar. In order to produce superior stock, the breeding animals, male and female, must be of the best quality and they and their progeny must have abundance of good provender at all seasons. Young stock of all kinds are sometimes injured for want of suitable food and shelter at the most critical period of their lives.

CRIBBING HORSES.—Mr. E. Richardson, of Fitchburg, Mass., says in a communication to the New England Farmer, that he has had the care of horses more or less for fifty years, and having given the subject considerable attention, is satisfied that cribbing is caused by inflammation or irritation of the throat, produced by compelling the horse to eat from a high crib, by obliging him to wear martingales, and by not giving him proper exercise. By feeding from a high crib the horse swallows his food with his neck curved unnaturally, and consequently with his throat more or less cramped. He says he has cured cribbers in the first stages "by lowering the feeding box to a level with their knees, thus allowing them to take their natural position in masticating and swallowing their food. The beneficial effect of a tight steap around the neck of a cribber is, in my opinion, the result of the relief it affords to the irritated throat. I have never experienced any benefit from medicine, or any other treatment in case of confirmed cribbers. Hence as an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure, I would recommend low feeding boxes, and exercise in proportion to feed and canpition of the animal.

Lorenzo Dow, the itinerant preacher, so famous in his life time for his eccentricity, commenced his sermon on one occasion by reading from St. Paul, "I can do all things," The preacher paused, took off his spectacles, and laid them on the open Bible, and said, "No, Paul you are mistaken for once; I'll bet you five dollars you can't, and stake the money." At the same time putting his hand in his pocket, he took out a five dollar bill, laid it upon the Bidle, took up his spectacles again, and read—"through Jesus Christ our Lord." "Ah! Paul," exclaimed the preacher, snatching up the five dollar bill, and replacing it in his pocket—"that's a different matter; the bet's withdrawn."

TO CLEANSE STABLES OF FLEAS.—There are two or three substances that are obnoxious to the flea—he does't like the smell of them, or they remind him of something that he does'tn like to think about—these are carbolic acid and sulphur. If you want a barn thoroughly purged of weveil, or lice, or fleas, the best way is to fumigate with sulphur. But if you white-wash all around the stables and posts of the yard with a wash made by adding carbolic acid to the lime, it will drive most of these pests away. Washing an animal thus infested, with carbolic soapsuds, will give relief.

TO TAKE OUT MILDEW.—Moister a piece of soap and rub it on the parts affected. Then rub them over with whiting. Lay the linen on the grass, and from time to time, as it becomes dry, wet it a little. Fine chalk will do instead of whiting. Or, take your cloth when dry, and wet thoroughly with soft soap and salt, mixed. Let it lie a short time; wash it in a good suds, and lay out to bleach. If one operation does not answer, two will, and restore the linen white as ever.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3,000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3.000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplur, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splendid barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A tract of valuable land, containing 356 acres, with fine two story dwelling containing 9 rooms and cook-room. Servant's house with 3 rooms, large barns and stables, all necessary and convenient out-houses, 3 tenant-houses near town, and immediately on the River. About 100 acres of this land is in fine wood and timber, balance in a fine state of cultivation. It has 8,000 grape vines one year old, 3,500 peach, apple and dwarf pear trees, five acres in strawberries which yielded an immence profit this year, ten acres in Lawton and other rare varieties of black-berries, 15 to 20,000 young peach trees with other choice fruits too numerous to mention. This farm has a public road on one side, and the River on the other, where strangers come daily to the landings to receive the fruits and vegetables, and carry them down to Norfolk, Baltimore, Phila., or New York. The land is finely adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, and all other field crops.

The owner of this farm offers to sell in tracts, to suit purchasers, say in 50 to 100 acre tracts, and at prices ranging from 35 to $80 per acre, according to location, buildings, &c.

There is also on this farm a fine fishery, where a seine 1,000 yards long, and 20 feet deep is hauled every Spring. Herring, Shad, Rockfish, Sturgeon and other valuable fish, are caught by thousands at every draw of the seine. And the profits are frequently large. This fishery of itself is worth nearly as much as is charged for the whole property. The terms will be liberal. This is probably the finest opportunity offered any where for a profitable investment.

☞ Fishery has an office, and two houses for hands besides fish house. Then some 500 to 1,000 loads of best fish manure on hand, besides over 5,000 loads of compost made ready for use. This goes with the farm.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY having a large amount of Real Estate of their own to dispose of, and their business having increased to such an extent, they think it prudent to decline acting further as Commission Agents for the sale of lands belonging to others. They will however be glad at all times to furnish every facility to parties coming to Elizabeth City with a desire to look at the country and make purchases if they find it to their interest to do so.

The following list of property, owned by the Company, is offered for sale on the most reasonable terms. Their object now is to acquire a larger monied capital for the purpose of further developing their unimproved lands and carrying out their original design of increasing the Commerce and General Trade of Elizabeth City.

As there are others in the Commission Business, parties are referred to their advertisement for further information.

ELIZABETH CITY.

The following desirable list of Properties in Elizabeth City are offered at very reduced prices for cash or on time payments at rates which make any of them excellent investments for capitalists. We have a finely timbered tract of land situated on the Albemarle Sound twenty miles from Elizabeth City, containing 124 acres. Good timber land bordering on the water is valuable both for wood as well as saw timber as water transportation affords a good margin for wood, say one dollar per cord. This will also make good farm land—will be sold for one thousand dollars.

Also one other tract of land containng 154 acres situated immediately on the Pasquotank River ten miles from Elizabeth City, valuable for wood, and is excellent farming lands, would be sold for six dollars per acre.

GATES COUNTY.

DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT

Has made the most astonishing cures; so quick, so rapid are the changes the body undergoes, under the influence of this truly wonderful medicine, that

EVERY DAY AN INCREASE IN FLESH AND WEIGHT IS SEEN AND FELT.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphili, Consumption Glandular disease, Ulcers in the throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumorous discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Theum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh. Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm and all wastes of the life principle, are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastess, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure—a cure is certain; for when once this remedy commences its work of purification, and succeeds in diminishing the loss of wastes, its repairs will be rapid, and every day the patient will feel himself growing better and stronger, the food digesting better, appetite improving, and flesh and weight increasing.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excels all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for KIDNEY & BLADDER COMPLAINTS, Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinuence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust, deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the Small of the Back and along the Loins.

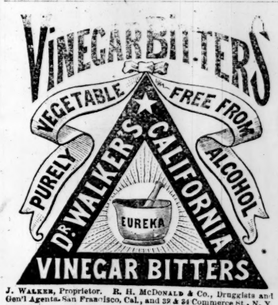
VINEGAR BITTERS



J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & Co., Druggists and Gen'l Agents, San Francisco, Cal., and 32 & 34 Commerce st., N. Y.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.
